

Adopt one of Nova Scotia's waiting children

It's easier than you think to adopt a child in Nova Scotia. You don't have to be young. You don't have to be wealthy. You don't have to be married either. You just need to be a special person with some special strengths. In this province, there are more than 100 kids of all ages who are hoping to be adopted. Some are brothers and sisters, and some are kids with special needs. Every child deserves a family who will love, support and take care of them.
