A clear understanding, and agreement if necessary, by both Parties of specific, measurable results of the project, project budget, project schedule, quality, limitations and constraints on the project, public concerns and interests to be considered, and the means by which value and results will be measured. 3. A process for periodic monitoring of projects and adherence to the MOU, controls over projects and accountability for decisions and actions. This, in conjunction with the increased oversight of the TCA Committee, serves to address the issue set out by the Auditor General in this recommendation.

May 2012	2	2.1	Do not Intend to Implement	We do not agree with this recommendation; we do not believe the benefits of an additional quality assurance/audit process outweigh the costs of doing so.
